HERE AND THERE.

BEING A MISCELLANEOUS COLLECTION OF NEWS FROM ALL AROUND ALASKA.

The Wrangell Drug Co.

A fine new stock of office stationery just received at this office.

Blacksmith Goodwin has been making some repairs to safes about town.

J. H. Wheeler, the druggist, has been on a business trip below for some days.

Charley Bielby has been in town for about a week, having come in on the last Peerless.

Dr. Shurick, of Klawack, was a Wrangell visitor this week. He came in on the last Peerless.

Mr. Stewart, on the Conclusion Island fox ranch, returned on the Cottage City from trip south.

That new planking near Carlyon's looks pretty good. Let others emulate the example set by it.

Collector C. E. Bronson was in Ketchikan a day or two last week, returning Friday night on the Amur.

Geo. Whitman, the Klawack merchant, came over on the last Peerless and spent the week at Wrangell.

C. S. Hubbell was a passenger down on the Dolphin, Saturday. He has been out in the Cook's Lilet country.

Harry Brice returned to Ketchikan on the Dolphin, after attending to some business and leaving M. R. Rosenthal's accounts with Geo. Snyder for collection.

The British steamship Amur dropped into this port Friday night, and after occupying an hour's time in making a landing, discharged twenty-five tons of coal.

That new flag pole at the custom house is a dandy. It is a spruce pole, fifty five feet long, and is spliced to a cedar post set six feet into the ground. The pole is so arranged that at any time it needs painting or the halyards get foul, it may be taken down by simply removing the adjustable collars with which it is made.

After a severe tussle with typhoid fever, little Walter Coulter is wearing it out and is improving.

Mrs. Case gave a dance at the hotel last Saturday night which was well attended and much enjoyed.

What do you think of a cabbage that weighs 21 pounds? Such an one came out of Marshal Grant's patch last week.

Jack Ertz is back to his old stamping ground at Wrangell, looking as natural as of yore. He arrived up on the Cottage City, after an absence of nigh onto two years.

P. Haught and Gus Scholas left Tuesday for a trapping expedition to Etolin Island. They took plenty of provisions, expecting to be gone until Christmas or New Years.

E. L. Green, a dentist formerly located at Wrangell, was a passenger on the Portland, looking up the chances of a business opening here.—Valdez Prospector, Nov. 9th.

F. E. Smith's canoe in from the Blind Slough on Mitkoff Island, last week, and reports logging operations in full blast. The outfit is in one of the best timber sections in Alaska.

M. F. Inman, trustee, and C. E. Webber, J. G. Grant and J. F. Hamilton, witnesses of the trustee's application, went to Juneau on the Humboldt to enter the Townsite of Wrangell in the Juneau Land Office.

Rev. Montgomery and family who have been at Shakan for some time past, left on the Dolphin to make their home in a suburb of Seattle, to which pastor the reverend gentleman has lately been assigned.

Capt. Torrey, one of the owners of the Bad Island gold mining properties, came in on the last trip of the Peerless. The Capt. is highly pleased with this property and says it will prove one of the best mines in all Alaska. Captain Hand is over there with a force of men pushing development work, and it is their intention to continue unceasingly until the mine is paying fine dividends.

The Twice a Week RepublicOF ST. LOUIS IS THE*BEST HOME NEWSPAPER.

Throughout the great Western and Southwestern country, the Twice-A-Week Republicis recognized as the BEST HOME NEWSPAPER. Read regularly by more than half a million persons twice every week, and firmly established as a welcome visitor to the homes of its great multitude of subscribers by a reputation founded in the progress of almost an entire century, it is at once the oldest and most complete weekly newspaper published in the vast territory through which it circulates.The Twice-a-Week Republic contains ALL the news of the world, and is consequently the mirror that reflects the doings of the world at large. The price of this great paper is $1 per year; but as long evenings are coming on, as an inducement to give our subscribers all the news, cheap, to all who will pay their subscriptions one year in advance we will send the SENTINEL and Twice-a-Week Republic for $2 per year—the price of the SENTINEL alone. Don't miss this opportunity of getting your reading for the winter.THE WRANGELL MILL*Receivership of Wilson and Sylvester Estates Decided

An important decision was rendered last week by Judge Gunison in the case of L. H. Wakefield, as administrator de bonis non of the estate of Rufus Sylvester, deceased, vs. Mary A. Wilson and T. C. McHugh, administratrix and administrator of the estate of Thomas H. Wilson, deceased, being an action for an accounting by the defendants and the appointment of a receiver of the property of Rufus Sylvester.

The case was complicated involving many questions of law, among which is the jurisdiction of the probate court to discharge an administrator without statutory notice being given, the right of Mr. Wilson and McHugh to act as administrators by virtue of a special appointment as such by the probate court, the necessity of the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the property of the estates to be administered upon, as well as many questions of fact growing out of several suits pending between the parties in interests.

The decision gave an exhaustive review of the facts and questions involved in the case. With reference as to the right of the probate court to discharge an executor without notice, and the validity of the order discharging Samuel Sylvester as executor, the court says:

"The plaintiff in this case introduced an order which purported to remove Samuel Sylvester as executor, and rested upon that, relying upon the presumption of regularity. The order, itself, fails to recite jurisdictional facts. There is no evidence before the court that the proceeding was properly initiated by petition or that the court obtained jurisdiction of the person of the executor, who was alleged to have been a non-resident, by a proper service of citation upon him, either by publication or posting. . . . The law does not expressly require an executor to remain a resident of a particular precinct of the District. If he shall be a resident of a particular precinct of the District, that is sufficient; and certainly the probate court cannot, without notifying him, deprive him of the right which he has theretofore had and to which he is entitled. . . . An order discharging or revoking an executor, does not revoke the letters."

"The Code, by express language, (§ 783) requires that if the court finds the change to be true, still further, that (1) it may remove such administrator, and (2) revoke his letters. The order of the probate court in this instance does not conform to the statute, and is not sufficient to divest Sylvester of authority or to cause a vacancy. . . . And, therefore, after the removal of Robert Reid as executor, a vacancy existed which would warrant the probate court in appointing an administrator de bonis non with will annexed. The order appointing Mr. Wakefield was void, since where removed, an executor is not entitled to his letters, de bonis non, a second agent is valid. Therefore, since the appointment of Wakefield as administrator de bonis non was void, he was without authority to commence this action, and it must be dismissed."

With relation to the appointment and continuance of a receiver, the court holds:

"It is patent from the evidence in this case, that the court did not have jurisdiction to appoint a receiver, nor does it have the power to appoint a receiver to succeed one appointed with care, prudence and caution, and only in cases when it appears that without it the complainant will sustain irreparable loss, and when it alone will prevent manifest wrong, imminently impending, and only in cases of apparent necessity. (Beach on Rec., pp. 63-66). The power lies in the discretion of the court, and is neither arbitrary nor absolute, and it is a well-established rule that a receiver will not be appointed if there be any other safe and expedient remedy. If such remedy exists it must be pursued. . . . The Code provides the means by which the probate court may compel the administrators to account to any party interested. It has power to direct the sale of property, and in fact the very relief which the plaintiff asks in his complaint in this suit can be obtained by him in the probate court located at the point where the property is situated. It can be obtained as speedily and as efficaciously as this court, and there is the very reason why matters of this kind should be settled by court, for the purpose instead of referring it to a different tribunal. Neither the necessity nor the expediency for the continuance of this receivership has been established."

"Let an order be issued directing the temporary receiver to forthwith settle his accounts, discharging him from further duties as such receiver, and directing him to turn the property in his possession back to the respective officials."

NOTICE TO DEBTORS.

The accounts of M. R. Rosenthal have been placed in my hands for collection. As the estate must be immediately settled up, those who know themselves to be indebted are requested to call at the SENTINEL office and square their accounts.

Respectfully,
GEO. C. L. SNYDER.

Inquiries as to possibilities in this section constantly come in, leading us to believe that there will be a rush to this part of Alaska next spring.

Every time a man takes a tumble he falls against his inclination.

A man's reputation often depends on the size of his bank balance.

You can't blame the man who is putting up a stove for hitting the pipe.

Naturally the new tuberculosis cure will increase the consumption of vegetables.

If the canal is an elephant it can be managed. If it should turn out to be a mule the problem would be more difficult.

John D. Rockefeller says: "Everyone is striving to get ahead." Well, he ought to know. He's right up in front where he can see.

And now an investigation has been instituted to ascertain if the smoke in the tobacco statistics bureau has been caused by live coals.

"We are overrun by fads," says a Nebraska professor. It is due to the automobile to say that the professor did not intend to refer to it.

How vastly the world has changed when all that is left of the "divine right of kings" is crowded into the two persons of Nicholas and Wilhelm.

When John D. Rockefeller's gardener found kerosene would kill bugs, his master graciously permitted him to make the discovery public. Sure thing.

Chauncey M. Depew should hurry with his book on "How to Succeed." It will have an enormous sale if he can bring it out before the people forget.

Thomas A. Edison says radium may become as cheap as coal. Then the small boy will positively refuse to bring in the family bucket of radium at night.

Nicola Tesla hints that it might be possible to throw the earth off its orbit. There is no reason, however, to get frightened. Roosevelt won't let him do it.

No politician can afford to tell the truth—that is to say, exactly what he thinks. And no politician can safely tell a lie, unless he has a good memory. But then a man without a good memory doesn't amount to much as a politician.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen C. Deppe, of Hickory Run, Pa., are, at the age of 40, the parents of six sets of twins and eleven other children. Perhaps the Deppes are anxious to have Hickory Run become entitled to a first-class postoffice.

A Chicago man and his wife have found their way into the divorce court because both wanted to occupy one chair. Before they were married one chair would have been—but isn't it strange that a few words by a preacher should make such a difference?

In the barber shop there are no rebates and from the call of "next" there is no appeal. And it is the even and equitable treatment of Croesus and commoner alike which constitutes the striped pole a true palladium of the rights of man. In the barber shop, at least, exact justice survives.

The lack of proper ventilation in the New York subway, which has caused great complaints and much discussion, prompts a visiting coal-miner to suggest that the company "hire any one of a hundred pit bosses that John Mitchell or I could name." These practical experts get air into mines because they must get it in or abandon work.

Many medieval churches took centuries to build. One began at Troyes, France, in the thirteenth century has just been finished, and opened with splendid ceremony. Pope Urban IV., who was a native of Troyes, ordered the church built on the site of the house where he was born, and the edifice was to be one of the finest specimens of Gothic art in France. But readers of history will remember that there were many little events which might undo the will of a thirteenth century pope, and Urban's church has had to wait a long time for the laying of the last stone.

The "summer place" of a wealthy family was formerly a place for rest and quiet; but of recent years society keeps so busy in the great country houses round New York that the life is practically that of the city, except for rural surroundings. In order to get away from it whenever for a few days their social obligations permit, the mistresses of the luxurious households are turning to "retreats" of the smallest and simplest kind, hidden in the woods, inaccessible to any but a very few intimate friends. Here they are happiest and most at peace—because they have dispensed with the things some persons covet. Surely there is little reason why these leaders of society should be envied by persons who are able to live near to nature the year round.

The tired man sits at his desk and scowls at the figures that confront him. There are bills and bills that cover the cost of Edith's trip to the mountains and Tom's run to the Yellowstone. There are bills for guns and tennis rackets, tennis shoes and golf outfit. It is not strange if the man wonders if it pays and if his children would not be just as well off if they were put up against self-denial and the steady grind that has always been the part of their father; that made his hair gray at 35 and gave him a stoop at 50. Does it pay? The question is almost sacrilegious. The world is changing fast, for it is learning to demand health and pleasure and recreation. It says that old men must remain young and that white hair and tottering footsteps must be reserved for the end of the game. Father and son play golf together and hunt from the same canoe. Mother thrills with pride at the remark "It doesn't seem possible that you have a daughter grown up." Sound bodies and robust health are the demand of these days of strenuous competition. They are gained by more liberty, more fresh air, more half holidays and more sane living. The money invested in play sports is well invested. Because your father bore down on you with his iron discipline is no reason why you should forget the youth of your children. Let's have more life, more golf, more sunshines, more knowledge of health. The man who gives his sons and his daughters more than he had himself, if he gives it wisely, is not only a home philanthropist but a loving father who has realized the true method of securing happiness.

Probably it is true, as the commander of the department of the lakes declares, that desertions from the army will continue as long as public sentiment favors the deserter. People do not like to appear in the role of the informer and military deserters are consequently undisturbed in the majority of cases. There is, however, a cause for these desertions, and it is a cause that has no effective remedy. Young Americans desert from the army in time of peace because they tire of the monotony of garrison duty, of drill and of the endless and unvarying routine of a soldier's life when no fighting is going on or in prospect. This is the cause for desertions not only from the army but from the navy. Young men are attracted by the superficial glitter and excitement of sailing or sailing and they enlist to find that playing soldier is the most dreary task in the world. Then they desert. Most of the talk about hardships endured and of tyrannies practiced by officers is utter humbug. The real truth is that Young America, though he is a fighter by instinct and inheritance, is not a "Sunday soldier." He is quick to volunteer when there is a prospect of active service, but he is not to be depended upon to endure the ordeal of military discipline in time of peace. So that desertions are likely to continue and in so far as they manifest a spirit of American independence they are not altogether a discouraging symptom of national life. We may be sure that the young men who are deserting nowadays would flock to the colors if there was a chance of smelling gunpowder in something else than target practice. This, however, constitutes no defense of desertion, which is the unpardonable military crime. Deserters should be punished in a fashion to discourage desertion. Other considerations aside, young men who enter the army should be taught to keep their contract with the government.

Famous Welsh Resort.

During the summer months Aberystwyth is the most populous town in Cardiganshire, and is reputed to possess the prettiest seashore of any watering place in Wales. At the southern extremity of a crescent promenade picturesque ruins of an ancient castle face the sea, the broken towers dating from the reign of Edward I.

This castle was erected for the purpose of hemming in, on the south, the turbulent forces of that "hawk of batte" Llewellyn the Great, and within its walls, in 1405, he who has been denominated "the personification of political dreams" Owen Glendower, signed an alliance with France, while the neighboring monks of Strata Florida, the most influential of Welsh abbeys, supported his insurrectionary claims. Until the middle of the seventeenth century the castle endured, guarding the plain around, but by the soldiers of Cromwell it was dismantled and destroyed, because the people of Aberystwyth had coined money for the use of their ill-fated king.—Four-Track News.

Girls at a Baseball Game.

Patience—So you've been to the baseball game?

Patrice—Yes, dear.

"Was it interesting?"

"Oh, very."

"How did it come out?"

"Why, one side got one run and the other got two."

"Which won?"

"The one which got two runs."

"Yes, I know, but did the home team win or the visitors?"

"Oh, I didn't ascertain that."—Yonkers Statesman.

"I proposed to that beautiful heiress last night," said the young man who wore an embroidered tie.

"And what did she say?" asked his friend.

"Well, after saying 'yes' she also said that I reminded her of the engagement ring."

"By George, you'd better look out. I guess she means that she is going to wrap you around her finger."

"Seeing is believing," is an old saw.

The man who gives his sons and his daughters more than he had himself, if he gives it wisely, is not only a home philanthropist but a loving father who has realized the true method of securing happiness.

It says that old men must remain young and that white hair and tottering footsteps must be reserved for the end of the game. Father and son play golf together and hunt from the same canoe. Mother thrills with pride at the remark "It doesn't seem possible that you have a daughter grown up." Sound bodies and robust health are the demand of these days of strenuous competition. They are gained by more liberty, more fresh air, more half holidays and more sane living. The money invested in play sports is well invested. Because your father bore down on you with his iron discipline is no reason why you should forget the youth of your children. Let's have more life, more golf, more sunshines, more knowledge of health. PAYING A DEBT.

Two cattlemen overtaken by bad weather twenty-five miles from their camp came in sight of a sod shack, and asked for food and shelter for the night. The story of their welcome is given in the Outlook by one of the cattlemen.

I shall never forget the little woman who met me at the door of that sod shack. I told her our situation. She was very gracious in granting us food and shelter for the night.

We sat there in the room. I could not think of a word to say, and Bibleback was worse off than I was. He could not do anything but look at the pictures on the wall. Then a man old enough to be her grandfather put in an appearance. He was friendly and talkative.

He was a retired stage-driver, and was looking after the stage horses. After supper I went out to the corral and wormed the information out of him that the woman was a widow, that her husband had died before she came there, and that she was poor and deserving.

I told Bibleback all this after we had gone to bed, and we found that our resources amounted to only four dollars, which she was more than welcome to. So the next morning when I asked her what we owed her she replied so graciously, "Why, gentlemen, I couldn't think of taking advantage of your necessity to charge you for a favor that I'm only too happy to grant."

"Oh," said I, "take this, anyhow," and laid the silver on the table.

We had started for the door when she stopped us.

"One moment, gentlemen. I can't think of accepting this. Be kind enough to grant my request."

We mumbled out some thanks, bade her good day, and started for the corral feeling like two sheep-thieves.

We were accustomed to hardship and neglect, but here was genuine kindness.

When we were near camp, Bibleback turned in his saddle and asked, "When is Christmas?"

"In about five weeks," I answered.

"Do you know where that big Wyoming stray ranges?" he next asked.

"Of course I do."

"Well," says he, "let's kill him and give that little widow every ounce of the meat. It'll be a good one on her, won't it? We'll fool her a plenty."

Three days before Christmas we drove up the Wyoming stray and killed him. We hung the beef up over night to harden in the frost, and next morning we reached the widow's place with 800 pounds of fine beef as you ever saw.

We wished her a merry Christmas and departed.

When we got out of sight of the house, old Bibleback Hunt was the happiest mortal I ever saw, and that Christmas was a merry one, for our debt was paid.

No Fish Without Forests.

The preservation of our streams is necessary to the preservation of our fish, but many of the readers may not yet have considered how intimately the preservation of our forests is connected with the preservation of our streams and hence the very existence of many fish, especially brook trout, depends upon the preservation of the forests.

To illustrate this relationship between forests and water, make a couple of troughs, line one with clay to represent the country denuded of trees, the opposite trough lined with sods of grass or moss to represent the forested mountain side, set them on an incline and connect their upper ends with a rough reservoir. Pour a pall of water into this reservoir and there will be a wild rush of water down the clay-lined trough, while the moss and grass-lined one will drip for hours.

It only needs a little imagination to convert this machine into a forest-clad mountain and one denuded of timber.

The cloudburst represented by the contents of the bucket suddenly poured into the top reservoir is only a dangerous cloudburst on the barren slope. By the use of this simple device you can explain to a child the absolute necessity of preserving the forests upon the water sheds if we would have continuous running water and not the certainty of flood and drought which are caused by the water sheds being recklessly denuded of timber.—Recreation.

Mission of Music.

Music boxes and blue light are two of the latest things in the line of anaesthetics. The music boxes do not reduce pain or render the patients insensible, but, according to Prof. Redard, of Geneva, they do take away certain ill effects that often accompany the use of anaesthetics. It is a well known fact that external impressions received during the period of somnolence have great bearing on the dreams. From this Prof. Redard conceived the idea of utilizing music. It was found that the music had a tendency to take away the disagreeable excitement previous to the use of the chloroform or other anaesthetic. The awakening was also found to be free from excitement.—Chicago Post.

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, g-o-n-e!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It checks falling hair, and always restores color to gray hair. A splendid dressing also. Sold for over sixty years.

"My hair comes out solidly. I nearly lost it all. I had heard so much about Ayer's Hair Vigor I thought I would give it a trial. I did so and it completely stopped the falling and turned gray hair rapidly."—MARY H. FIELD, Northfield, Mass.

Robert W. Brown, newly elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, has been affiliated with Louisville Lodge No. 8 of that order since 1887, and it has been through his efforts that the fraternity was enabled to build a magnificent home in that city costing upward of $20,000. He is a Kentuckian by birth, about 40 years old, and for twenty years has been a newspaper man. The only public office Mr. Brown has ever held was that of private secretary to the Mayor in the administration of Charles P. Weaver. He is managing editor of the Louisville Times.

As illustrating Miss Jeannette Gilder's recent discussion of the question, "Does it pay to be a literary woman?" it is significant that the two most prominent present-day writers of short stories in Italy and in Spain are women. Mathilde Serio is easily the most popular author in Italy, and no other modern Italian, with the exception of the dramatist, D'Annunzio, is so widely known in other countries. In Spain a somewhat similar position is held by Emilia Pardo Bazan, an author has been as prolific as she is popular. Besides her admirable work in fiction, she has maintained for several years in Madrid a newspaper devoted to theatrical criticism written entirely by herself.

The Blessings of Love.—Love conquers pride, drives out envy, overcomes hate, withstands temptation. Love helps, love blesses, love saves. Like mercy, it is twice blessed; it blesses him that gives and him that takes. In this sense he that loseth his life shall find it. The selfish man is the poor man, with starved heart and shrunken soul. The great hearted man who loves all God's creatures is the real millionaire, his peace and happiness are sure.—Rev. R. S. Domson, Presbyterian, Kearney, N. J.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Faith.—Faith merely in the sense of believing doctrines about Him must inevitably fade away during the centuries. Fantastic dogmas, attempts to ascribe to Him qualities never claimed by Him, will be dispelled by historical study. In their place will come a juster comprehension of the faith of Christ; an understanding of the finite physical and historical within which that faith was expressed; a saner endeavor to live out that faith in our own lives.—Rev. H. W. Foote, Unitarian, New Orleans, La.

Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube re-toed to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; this can only be done by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Doyen, the noted French physician, whose much-heralded cure for cancer has been pronounced a failure by a committee from the Paris Academy of Medicine, has been the recipient of much criticism and some censure during the past six months. He came to the notice of the American public in November last, when George Crocker, of New York brought suit against him for the return of a medical fee of $20,000, alleged to have been paid him on a guarantee of a cure of Mrs. Crocker, a victim of cancer. Mrs. Crocker died, and her husband brought suit and made some sensational charges which were so grave that the French academy, of which the doctor was a member, appointed a committee to investigate his alleged cure. That committee has now reported that it has been unable to find case which Dr. Doyen has even referred.

Brigadier General William Harding Carter, who has been assigned to the command of the Department of the Lakes, is a distinguished soldier whose book "Horses, Saddles and Bridles" is the text-book for mounted officers in the army. He was born at Nashville, Tenn., and was graduated from the military academy in 1873, in time to take part in the expedition against the Sioux. Later for sixteen years he saw arduous service in Arizona, and for bravery in the battle against Apaches at Cibecue Creek, Aug. 30, 1881, he received a medal of honor. During the Spanish war General Carter rendered efficient service in the War Department.

He was born in Indiana in 1829 and practiced law in Greensburg the greater part of his life. He was elected to Congress in 1854, defeating W. S. Holman in his first race. He headed the Indiana electoral ticket in 1860, was a paymaster in the United States Army during the war, declined the position of Minister to Portugal under President Grant, came within two votes of being elected United States Senator in 1869, served in the State Senate, and was formerly Lieutenant Governor of Indiana.

After an eight days' fight the Seattle-Nome convention elected three delegates to go to next congress at Washington to further Alaska interests. This, too, against the protests of Nome, which claimed that congress would seat but one. On this ground the general public will ask where would congress "seat" one delegate any more than it would "seat" three. Congress has never given the residents of Alaska the power or right to elect one delegate or any other number to that honorable body, and until it does those elected will go to Washington simply as private individuals to shiver about the lobbies of the National capital. Ex-Governor A. P. Swineford was chosen from this division, and it is understood, will severely score Mr. Jackson on this account. However, nothing official is obtainable about the report, and nothing is likely to be made public until after it has been submitted to Secretary Hitchcock and the president.

It is not infrequently that the attention of people is called to a case where some indigent poor among the Indians is lying in some dilapidated old shack, dying by inches of some disease, without food, without medicine or any of those comforts that should be accorded a dog in the last days of his existence. Under existing circumstances there is no help for this. The poor patient cannot be sent to jail, for he has done no criminal act for which to commit him. What then is to be done? SENTINEL would suggest that if those who pretend to be so solicitous on behalf of the Indians would use their endeavors to have the government put a small part of the money that it is using in building fine school houses, in erecting a few homes for the indigent, to be looked after by paid missionaries, they would come nearer following out the Golden Rule.

Judge Gunnison thinks it a dangerous and uncalled-for practice to appoint receivers, except in extreme cases. Right the Judge is; but he forgets that there is good, big money in receivingships, and that the motto of Hills, Brown & Co., while in Alaska was "Get Money! if you can't get it one way, get it another! But GET MONEY!" The only thing that strikes Sentinel peculiar is that Hills wasn't appointed receiver of the Wrangell mill property instead of Hellenthal.

Seward and Valdez are both pushing their railroads to beat the band; but Seward seems to be way yonder in the lead of her rival.

Fairbanks has shipped out $6,692,840.41 of the precious metal during the past season, which is not bad for a starter.

TREASURER'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the tax roll for the Town of Wrangell, Alaska, for the year 1905, has been placed in my hands for collection; and further notice is given that all taxes must be paid by the fourth Monday of December, 1905, at 6 o'clock P. M., and if not paid prior thereto the same will become delinquent and 5 per cent will be added to the amount thereof.

Dated November 16, 1905.
P. C. McCORMACK,
Town Treasurer.

If indications amount to anything, and we think they do, the country about Wrangell will be one of great mining activity. Although it is being quietly done the mainland north and east of town is being staked, while hundreds of claims have been and are being taken on Mitkoff and Kupreanoff Islands, and not a few have staked properties on the east side of Wrangell.

SOLDIER'S ADDITIONAL HOME-STEAD APPLICATION.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Juneau, Alaska, October 12, 1905.
NOTICE is hereby given that O. P. Brown, as grantee of the estate of Peter Th. Buschmann, and trustee of David E. Farley, being entitled to the benefits of Section 203 of the General Statutes of the United States granting additional lands to soldiers and sailors who served in the cause of the Rebellion, has made application to the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office for an additional homestead, pursuant to act of congress approved May 14, 1898, for lands in U. S. Survey No. 223, in Alaska, described as follows:

Beginning at a point at high water mark on the north end of Metkoff Island, marked Bear Cor. No. 1, Sur. No. 223, from whence U. S. location monument No. 7 bears south 57 degrees 57 minutes west, 53.57 chains distance. Thence west 11 degrees 45 minutes, 20.31 chains to corner No. 4. Thence west 11 degrees 45 minutes east, containing an area of 39.99 acres.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said lands are required to file a protest or adverse claim to the same within thirty days thereafter, otherwise proof or written or oral entry of said lands will be made by said applicant.

JOHN W. DUDLEY, Register.

It is hereby ordered that the foregoing notice be published in the JUNEAU ALASKA SENTINEL, a weekly newspaper printed at Wrangell, Alaska, which I hereby designate as the newspaper nearest the land described.
